

Abstract

An apparatus and method for improving data transfers between a 5 network and a network device is provided. Said apparatus comprising a data input, a programmable counter adapted to counting the number of data packets received, an interrupt generator for signaling a microprocessor upon a signal from said programmable counter, a data processing block for examining the contents of data packets for an end-of-packet flag, and an 10 output.